AVERAGE AMERICAN WASTES ENOUGH EVERY MEAL TO KEEP ANOTHER FROM STARVING

Complete Humbling of Hohenzollerns

French Soldiers Cannot Meet This New Offensive Without Our Aid

That the extravagance of the American nation will do as much to help Germany if it is continued as any other one thing and that thousands of starving families could be made happy with what the American families waste at their tables and in their kitchens, was forcefully driven into the minds of a thousand or more Ypsilantians at Pease Auditorium Sunday afternoon when Dean Sarah Louise Arnold, Edward F. Trefz and Alex Cairns spoke here in interest of the United States Food Administration.

Mr. Trefz was the first speaker. He took only a short time, due to the fact, as announced later by Pres. McKenny, that he was suffering considerable pain from a wound which he received while near the front in France, from a shell which fell near the automobile in which he was riding a few months ago and threw him out.

He spoke of the great waste left behind the German armies in France and Belgium. The order that not a tree should be left standing was carried out by the German soldiers with remarkable precision at great cost to the French nation, he said and added that despite the effort being made to have it appear that there is plenty of food in France, there is really a short age and that the French soldiers are underfed. He stated that his first knowledge of the conditions was when in Paris he sat down in a hotel for what he expected to be an unusually fine breakfast and received one egg, some prunes and bread and coffee for which he was charged $4.75.

Dean Sarah Louise Arnold confined her address to the importance of food conservation. It is a patriotic duty of every person in the United States, she declared to conserve food. Her talk was brief but very much to the

LINCOLN BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

BREAKEY, FRANCIS AND VAN HORN WILL REPRESENT INTER-CLUB IN TRY OUT

At the weekly meeting of the Lincolns, Breakey, Francis and Van Horn with Hood as alternate were chosen to represent the club in the inter-club contest for the college team. This contest will be held next Saturday, Feb. 16 between three representatives of each club and from these six debaters will be selected three and an alternate to form part of the college team which will meet the Indiana State Normal College, the latter part of this quarter. The remaining three places on the team will be filled on Saturday, Feb. 23 in the all college contest. Any student may enter this latter contest and they are urged to do so in order that our college may be represented in the best possible manner.

It may seem to students outside of the clubs that this continuel debating of the Monroe Doctrine would become tiresome, but that is far from true, for the more one delves into this great question, the more interesting and complex does it become. Never before were such interest and spirit shown at the Lincoln club as were exhibited Saturday morning, and many new phases and points on the question were brought up. Each man chose and debated on the side of the question which he favored and went at it whole-heartedly to convince his opponents that they were wrong.

It may be interesting to note that on Tuesday evening, Feb. 12 on the birthday of the great man in whose honor this club was formed and named, we banqueted and much to our pleasure, at the expense of the Web-

RESOLUTIONS OF M. S. T. A. MEETING

ASSOCIATION NOW ENROLL OVER SIX THOUSAND TEACHERS, WHO HAVE GREAT TASK

Urge Red Cross

Should Give Proper Interpretation to Revolutionary War, Teaching By Phonograph.

Kalamazoo, Mich.

To the Editor:

The following resolutions were adopted by the Michigan State Teachers' Association at its last annual meeting. The Association enrolls in its active membership over six thousand teachers and it is hoped that you will consider their declarations regarding the war work of the public schools of interest to your patrons, and that you will print them in your paper as you find it convenient.

JOHN P. EVERETT, Sec'y,
Michigan State Teachers' Ass'n.

(Resolutions adopted at the annual meeting of the Michigan State Teachers' Association.)

The present crisis of the Nation's affairs makes it our duty to use our whole influence as teachers in the support of the government of the United States. We believe that every teacher should not only preach patriotism, but practice patriotism. We therefore, recommend: (1) That all possible emphasis be given to Red Cross work and the war Y. M. C. A. (2) That in all high schools, manual training, commercial training, science, agriculture, and all those other subjects of which a knowledge may help to win the war, shall take precedence over those which are less directly practical. (3) That the standard of elementary, intermediate,

The American House Manager is today a member of the army that is fighting to save democracy in the world. More than 11,000,000 managers of American homes have enlisted for the duration of the war and pledged themselves to support the fighting men by the way they buy, cook and serve food. Food will win the war, and these women will help to win it. America must send food to Europe. The armies cannot hold out if we fail to send it. Only certain foods can be shipped—those that pack the most food value into the smallest shipping space. These foods are wheat, meat, fats, sugar. We cannot eat them and send them too. We cannot eat them and send others. We must send these foods, and in order to do that we must eat other foods ourselves. The American House Manager will see to it that no food comes into her home that does not do its full duty under her management in winning the war.

Have Been in Sound of "Big Bertha". Lays Inconvenience to Fortune of War

Somewhere in France,
Dec. 22, 1917.

Reid and I have read the two copies of The Normal College News which we have so far received so thoroughly and so many times that we can quote the prices on all the articles in your last page ads. You must remember that since I left the Normal last spring I have been writing nothing but reports and orders in my capacity of company clerk, and pardon any wavering from the straight and narrow path which Miss Downing so clearly pointed out to me.

Upon our arrival at the port of debarkation we were sent to a concentration camp where we were quartered in comfortable barracks. Here we had all the modern conviences of home, including electric lights, a bath house and a place to wash clothes.

I can make myself understood fairly well now, and can afford to laugh at my first experiences.

I cannot speak too highly of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in France. Of course you know the nature of the work, and I can tell you that after a long day's hike it certainly is "a grand and glorious feelin'" to go into a warm Y hut where there is music, writing material, magazines

BRILLIANT ADDRESS ON FEMINISM AND GREAT WAR

BEATRICE FORBES-ROBERTSON HALE GIVES SANE AND SATISFYING DISCUSSION OF SUBJECT

Tells of Women's Work in England

Subject of Conservation of Food is Given Full Emphasis As Close Of Lecture

A thoroly sane and satisfying discussion of the subject of feminism, particularly in it's relation to the present situation internationally, was offered by Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale to her audience at Pease Auditorium Monday evening. It was an address of the kind that would awaken the indifferent and stir the active to a still greater activity.

Her remarkable command of ready platform illustrations afforded splendid emphasis for what was said and her review of the wonderful accomplishments of women of the present age in England and France and Belgium, as well as here in America, was a big argument for the rights women of the nation are asking.

Mrs. Hale, who has been identified with the efforts of women of England, as well as in this country, was able to present many illuminating details of the campaign for recognition by Parliament which have never been detailed by the press and for the same reason was able to bring to her audience a breadth of view which made her points profoundly convincing.

The privileges which the woman of today enjoys as a result of the early stages of the feminist movement, the untold valor of the effort of the women in itself, the "red herrings" drawn across the path by the "antis" at every point were detailed and withal ,the speaker's firm conviction of the ultimate success of the movement was expressed.

The ubiquitous subject of the conservation of food, wheat and sugar in particular, was not overlooked, since the speaker closed with a plea that the women staunchly adhere to the program which seems proper, as to menus, despite the grumblings of the men, which, she said, she realized would issue forth.

Wodeso

The Wodeso club met at the home of Prof. Lathers Tuesday evening. After the business meeting the question, Resolved: That an international police force should be established at the close of the present war to maintain peace, was debated. The affirmative was upheld by the Misses Bogue, Frost and Brooks. The negative by the Misses Sovey and Sprague. The judges were unable to come to a decision, consequently the debate was pronounced a tie.

The members of the Wodeso club, or rather a few of the members, met at the home of Professor Lathers at seven o'clock Tuesday night, where they resumed their discussion of a "Military police force to be maintained after the war." In the formal debate Miss Steward and Miss MacLachlan upheld the alternative while the Misses Foley and Shaw showed us the wonderful opportunities of the negative. The debate shows great improvement, and Miss Foley's clear, direct and well formulated arguments, together with Miss Shaw's tsrong and iron-clad points gives us new enthusias mand hopes with which to prepare our combat with Albion College. The Misses Placeway, Sprague and Harvy, acted as judges and rendered an unanimous decision in favor of the negative, which surely proves the fact that our question has two sides as the affirmative side was favored last week.

Business of Stirring Up

C.C.B.—We are not doing enough for our country. It is all right to have Tuesday a meatless day and Wednesday a wheatless day, but let's carry the idea further. Why not make Monday a washless day, thus saving the wages of a washwoman to devote to our boys in France every week? Thursday could be made a shaveless day, on which barbers could close their shops. Friday could be made a bookless day, on which nobody would do any reading whatsoever, thus conserving white paper. Saturday could be turned into a bathless day, saving soap and water for our allies, and making America, in time, the strongest nation in the world. As for Sunday, the churches should of course do their part by giving way to the needs of the country. Won't you please stir up your column in behalf of democracy? We might even grant you a columnless day once in a while.

Food Will Win the War

A LARGE part of the world is coming to the position that Belgium is in; coming to the stage where the primary and important thing in life is enough food to keep alive. Food has now taken a dominant position in the war. The American people must prepare themselves to sacrifice far more than was at first thought necessary.

The cold facts are: France, Italy and England have just enough food to keep them going ten or twelve weeks. When America's food shipments stop—the allied nations begin consuming into this slender store and begin a swift march into actual famine conditions—which would mean defeat in short order.

Europe then must live on America's surplus. Your saving increases our available stocks just that much and actually feeds some person in the countries with which we are associated in our war against the Central Powers.

Our surplus wheat has already been shipped to the allies.

and perhaps a bowl of hot chocolate and a package of cookies. It doesn't exactly take the place of home but it is the nearest thing to home that I have found in France.

At ——— we were within sound of the "Big Berthas," which woke us up in the morning and lulled us to sleep at night. However, a good soldier never stays long in one place, which, as near as I can discover, was the reason for our starting out in heavy marching order one fine December morning. We reached our present location after a three day hike and are now quartered in barracks for a few days, after which we will start out again for—God knows where.

If anyone over here tells you that he is cold and uncomfortably quartered, put Steimer down for a poor soldier. He is simply too lazy to get out and forage his own firewood. I haven't a kick to make. I knew this was not going to be a Sunday school picnic when I started out and I lay any inconveniences that I find to the "fortunes of war" and try to think up a good joke to tell about it when I get back to the good old U. S. A. (I'm coming back).

We are over here doing whatever comes our way and we know that you people are doing your part. We shall all profit by the experiences which the present crisis brings to us, whether we work in America or in Europe. When we begin to get so shortsighted that we can't see through the clouds, someone starts to sing: "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag, and smile, smile, smile."

While you've a lucifer to light your fag,
Smile, boys, that's the style,
What's the use of worrying?
It never was worth while, so
Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag,
And smile, smile, smile!"

Very sincerely yours,
GUY A. TRACY.

The Library

Miss Maud Allen, County Normal instructor in library work, spent last Friday in the Library, being unable to meet her appointments in the western part of the state where traffic is snowbound and many schools closed.

The Training Department Library is being used more than ever before, owing to the congestion in the General Library consequent on early closing, and also because of accessions which make it possible for student teachers to prepare more of their lessons for teaching with the added reference material that is available on the shelves.

There are now over two thousand volumes in this library. The collection of pictures is gaining rapidly and is well indexed.

The following are among recent accessions:

232.1 Pringle and Urann. Yuletide in many lands, 1917.
352 Crump, Irving. Boys' book of firemen, 1916.

LINCOLN BANQUET TUESDAY NIGHT

sters as a result of that deadly duel before assembly Wednesday, Feb. 6.

Next Saturday every man may speak on his favorite side and points in order that each may show up at his best. The debates are to be individual with no teamwork between those on the same sides. We are of course, anxious to win as many places as possible on the college team, so come on ye Lincolnites every one, be out next Saturday morning and so give your men your moral support.

Training School Notes

Mr. Roberts accompanied by his group of elementary teachers spent a very enjoyable and profitable day in visiting Kalamazoo Normal on Friday, Feb. 8. They were entertained at a luncheon served by the domestic science department at which President Waldo gave a cordial welcome and spoke of the value of such conferences. Mr. Roberts expressed his hearty co-operation. Various groups of Kalamazoo teachers entertained the visiting party that evening.

Mrs. B. W. Peet most delightfully entertained at dinner for Miss Wombough on Tuesday evening. Covers were laid for ten.

On Friday morning the eighth grade invited Mr. McKay to read for the children. He gave several selections from Thomas Dailey. They were thoroly appreciated by all.

Miss Lulu Reid, Primary Supervisor of the Jackson schools, was a visitor at the training school Wednesday. Supt. MacDonald of River Rouge interviewed candidates for positions in his schools on Tuesday.

The children of the training school cleared $26 on their "salvage drive" of two weeks ago. This amount, added to their other earnings, made it possible for them to purchase ten smileage books to be sent to training school boys now in the federal camps, hundred dollar war pledge.

"Yes," said the old grad. "I guess that the thing that surprizes the college man most when he gets ont in the world is to find out how much uneducated people know."—The Cornell Widow.

To Get "Big Bill's" Scalp, Economise

point and emphasized the fact that everybody is needed to help win this war, if it to be won by the Allies.

Everett Colby added considerably to the force of his address by introducing a pleasing, but fitting strain of humor, first asking his audience to stand in order that he might be sure that he could "move" them, and declaring at the outset of his address that he is out after the scalp of "Big Bill."

He quoted the aims of America in entering this war from Pres. Wilson's speech, pointing out that it is not for gain but for freedom and declared that the French soldiers who have been at the front for months without sufficient food will never be able to meet the attacks being planned by a million fresh troops just brought up from the Russian front, unless they have the help of the American nation both in supplying reinforcements and more food.

In mentioning the wonderful work women are doing he stated that in England and France the women have taken the places of the men in nearly every walk of life, but hundreds of unfortunate girls in Belgium and Northern France have fallen into the hands of Germans and have been made orderlies for the German officers.

Submarines have accomplished less in the last year than ever before, he stated, and more have been captured or sunk in that time by the U. S. and allies than ever before.

MINERVA HAS POT LUCK FEED

The Minerva Literary society believes in mixing fun with their war relief work. This was proved by a pot luck supper which they enjoyed in Frances Wimer's rooms Thursday evening, Feb. 7. The study table fairly groaned under its weight of good things and some of the girls were in a similar condition after a raid had been made on the table.

After the "eats" a few stunts were enjoyed, such as an original dance by Miss Wimer, a piano solo by Miss Bogue, and a poem by Miss Stapleton. Mrs. M. A. Jones and Miss Gardner were the guests of the evening.

Chi Delts Feast

The Chi Delts Fraternity held a "Camouflage" dinner at the Rowima Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Being true disciples of Hoover, the banqueters partook only of dishes prepared from that great American product, corn.

At the close of the patriotic meal the following interesting and humorous toasts were given, Mr. Ralph Carpenter acting as toastmaster:

Mush and Milk.....Clarence Beeman
Cornmeal Muffins.....Lolyd Gullen
The Ladies.....Floyd Cutcher
Remarks .....Prof. Pray

After listening to the toasts, the company sojourned merrily to the home of their patron, Prof. Carl E. Pray and spent the remainder of the evening in dancing. The guests of the evening were: Mrs. Carl Pray, Mr. Paul Rankin of Marshall, Mrs. Lloyd Gullen, Miss Bingle, Miss Wimer, Miss Walker, Miss Kelley, Miss Emery, Miss Pugh, Miss Beemon, and Miss McDowell of Howell.

Degree Class

There is nothing slow about the Degree class, once it is started. The February meeting was held at the home of Miss Fair, 111 Normal St., who kindly took us in since the Normal was closed. The first part of the evening was spent socially, singing, playing Poor Pussy, and the like. It was a typical Normal affair, the feminine section greatly outnumbering the masculine section.

After a short business session, delicious refreshments, consisting of lemon ice and wafers, were served. At the close of the evening's fun, all those present were looking forward to getting better acquainted, thru such gatherings and feeling sorry for those other members who had missed such a good time.

Alumni Honored

Mr. Paul A. Cowgill, a graduate of the Normal, has just been re-elected to serve a third term as secretary of the Portland Reality Board. His election was by unanimous vote, which is significant of the fine work that he is doing and has done.

In his report as secretary Mr. Cowgill called attention to the fact that the Portland Realty Board is now 12 years old, and in a particularly vigorous condition.

Resolutions of M. S. S. A. Meeting

secondary and industrial schools should not be allowed to deteriorate during this crisis, but if possible, be improved. Likewise, collegiate and professional education should be encouraged and further developed, because one of the greatest needs of the country, both in war and in periods of national reconstruction, is trained leadership. (4) Such revision of the course of study, improvements in methods of instruction, and alteration in the lengths and dates of school terms, vacancies and holidays, as may be necessary in the present crisis. (5) The maintenance of continuation schools, the wider use of school plants, prompt organization and further development of industrial and other forms of vocational work to meet the requirement of the Smith-Hughes Act. (6) A thorough and comprehensive plan of physical training including medical inspection should be provided and made compulsory on all boys and girls of all ages attending schools. This plan should include physical exercises, setting up drills with emphasis upon posture and discipline, marching, organized and supervised play, recreation, athletics, gymnastics, summer camps and outdoor life, wherever possible for the whole or part of the vacation. This work should always be intensive, should be graduated and adapted to the needs of the pupils. Should aim to train pupils in health, strength, vigor, alertness, endurance, self reliance and self control, and should include suitable provision for the correction of bodily defects. At the same time, provision should be made for the extension of similar kinds of instruction for young people who are not in school through the agencies already established, such as evening and continuation schools, recreation and community centers and others which may be established. All this we urge as a basis of real military training for those who may be called to the colors. (7) That the superintendents and county commissioners of Michigan make definite provision and promote with vigor the plan for a comprehensive teaching of democracy as outlined in the series of bulletins issued by the United States Department of Education. (8) That we as members of this association pledge our loyalty to the government and co-operate in every possible way in the successful prosecution of the war, and that to this end we will in our schools stress the necessity and importance of genuine thrift in the individual and in the home, the purchase of Liberty Bonds and the conservation of food. (9) That all these matters receive immediate attention and prompt action in order that the schools may do their "bit" in making the world safe for democracy.

The Revolutionary War

The fact that our forefathers did once fight England is calculated at the present time to prevent that complete understanding and perfect cooperation with Great Britain, which are prerequisites to our success in the war which both nations are waging for democracy. We, therefore, suggest that special care be taken to teach the children of the state that when George III came o the throne of England, the colonies were absolutely loyal to England; that George III undertook to rule England without a Parliament; that in order to do this he sought illegally to secure a revenue from America; that he was strong enough to try to coerce America, but not strong enough to get a united England back of him; that if he had had all England back of him he might have won; that Burke, Pitt, and Fox perceived and thwarted his designs; that these great Englishmen, by thwarting his designs, rendered to America, to England and to democracy services second only to those of Washington, Adams and Jefferson; and that if any hatred is left in America as a result of the events from 1775 to 1782, it should be directed not against the English, but against George III, who was not an Englishman, but a scion of the German house of Hanover.

Teaching By Machines

The demand for teachers of French at Camp Custer far exceeds the supply. The educational director of the Army Y. M. C. A. has adopted a noval method of relieving the situation. Acting upon his suggestion, the Executive Committee of the Michigan State Teachers' Association has made an appropriation of $500.00 with which to purchase phonographs and records to be used in teaching our soldiers the "parlez vous" of the French language.

Still More Letters of Thanks Arrive

Some Packages are Delayed but Recipients Just as Grateful

Still another letter of thanks for the Christmas cheer, that our college sent out in the form of Xmas packages, has come in. The grateful writer expresses himself as follows:

Dear Mr. Steimle:

One of the real pleasant things in a soldier's life is the receiving of a package chuck full of cheer from friends back home, for they surely do cheer us as few other things do.

The package came to camp several days ago, but as it went to the wrong barracks and barracks that were quarantined, I was not able to get it until later. I wish to thank the faculty and students for their thotfulness and kind wishes. It helps a great deal and we appreciate it.

Wishing M. S. N. C., its faculty, and the students the best of luck, I am

Sincerely yours,
ROLAND V. BELL,

Camp Custer, Hdq. 85th Div., care Statistical office.

Dear Mr. Steimle:

Am sending you a line letting you know where I am. Give the Normal my best regards. We are all hoping to be back there in another year, but now we have the German autocracy to destroy. Then we will all come home to dear old M. S. N. C.

Hoping all is well there, I will close,

RELL A. AMBROSE.

Dear Mr. Steimle:

I wish to thank the Normal faculty and students for their good wishes and the kit with its cheer, which was made doubly welcome by the fact that we are being held in quarantine.

Respectfully,
MARTIN MUSOLF.

NORMALITES IN THE GREAT WAR

Erwin W. Saunders, a Normal graduate and proprietor of the Saunders Camera shop, has received an appointment of government photographer with Aero Division of the Signal Corps. He left recently for the Leneway Aviation Fields at Hamp ton, Virginia, where he will begin his new duties. He went by way of Washington, D. C., and does not expect to return to Ypsilanti until after the close of the war.

His business here will continue and will be looked after by Mrs. Saunders who is thoroughly familiar with the work.

Jesse Watson of Normal College, who has been teaching in Chesaning, has resigned to enter the aviation department of the U. S. army service. This is the third resignation at Chesaning since the beginning of the war. Mr. Watson was a week end guest in the city.

Clarence Ponton is now located in Paris after being under fire and life in a dugout. He is seeing many great sights and says, "Talk about sport, boy—I went to sleep in clean sheets and ate from white dishes for the first time in over two months."

Here Comes the Bride

The announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ruth L. Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cole of Dexter, and Normal College graduate, to Firnon J. Bishop of Marquette and graduate of the University of Michigan engineering department January 26th in Marquette.

The bride is a well known Ann Arbor trained nurse.
